

Client:

Command Force Contracting & Support Solutions, Inc. is based in Boston, USA and provides construction and procurement services. With a team over 28 years of experience, CFCSS has managed projects up to 40 million dollars. As a growing Service-Disabled, Veteran-Owned Small Business, Command Force Contracting serves as an ideal partner for contracting officers and construction firms seeking high quality products and services at a competitive cost.

Project Aim:

The Pete D'Agostino, the owner of CFCSS wanted more on-line presence to offer his services as well as to market his web presence. He wanted a flexible and user-friendly which was easily manageable. The intention of the website was to showcase their extensive project experience and stand out from its competitors by reflect the advantage of using their services.

Solution Offering:

ITShastra developed cfcss.net website, after detailed discussions with the client and customized web design was provided that reflects the services offered. We designed a search engine friendly custom WordPress website, so that the client can easily manage it on day-to-day basis.

Why we choose WordPress?

WordPress is an automated platform for managing complete web-sites with single clicks. The “static” platforms for creating websites are really inflexible, as the need for updating and keeping contents fresh on the website is very important. The really handy thing there is that when you change a page layout, all the pages change, and you do not need to upload every single page all over again, thus effectively avoiding all the hell connected to that. This makes WordPress the best choice for our client. The client can easily add new pages all the time, add new internal links, and do not have to worry about the SEO as we have programmed all these into WordPress. Tons of plugins available for everything makes it even more powerful and flexible, and the ideal choice for Command Force Contracting website

ITShastra worked on the Search Engine Optimization to increase their online visibility. Apart from this, we introduced social networking features like twitter, facebook, etc. The latest news feature on the website, updates the visitors all the latest activities in CFCSS. ITShastra has provided technical support to the client and keeps supporting the client with the enhancement of the website.
